that were elaborate, highly creditable and this one. It was an ambitious venture on the part of the Davis County Fair association, and its officers have done a prodigious amount of work to bring together such a collection of the county's products, but the result of all this labor, as shown in the splendid exhibition, justifies the faith of the fair association officials in their county, and reflects credit on their industry and perseverance.

The opening day demonstrated that the venture is a success. From the time the first visitor stepped inside the gates and entered the manufactures and horticul-tural building, the expressions heard have been all complimentary. Visitors from outside the county, especially, were surprised at the extent and excellence of the displays. Some were heard to say that individual displays had never been equalled in the state.

The fair was formally opened at 1 p. m. by a banquet, served in the new cafe building, at which President Hyrum Stewart of the fair association presided. Stewart of the fair association presided. There were seated at the tables about seventy-five persons, the guests of honor being President James G. McDonald and Horace S Ensign of the Deseret Agricultural & Manufacturing society. President Orson H. Hewlett of the Manufacturers and Merchants' association; Senator Simon Bamberger, Joshua B. Bean and other Salt Lakers, and many of the leading citizens of Davis county. The Kaysville band furnished music during the banquet.

Some Speechmaking.

President Hyrum Stewart, in a well worded speech welcomed the guests and referred to the wonderful change that has been wrought in Davis county within the memory of the present generation.

President J G. McDonald was introduced and in the highest terms of compliment spoke of the excellence of the fair in every lepartment. He was impressed with the idea that Davis county should erect a building in the State Fair grounds and make a display there that would keep its products before the public.

President Orson H. Hewlett of the Manufacturers and Merchants' association, to whom the fair officials are indebted for valuable aid, spoke in a happy vein of the amount of work required to bring to-gether and advertise such a fair. Davis county, he said, will get more advertising out of this venture than it has had in the last thirty years. Others who spoke during the banquet were Horace S. Ensign of Salt Lake, Mayor Robinson of Farmington and John

SHOWING OF PRODUCTS IS ONE SELDOM EQUALLED.

Yesterday was a proud day for Davis county. It marked the opening of the first county fair, and those who went out to the Lagoon, where the exhibition was held, saw displays in every department that were elaborate, highly creditable and the Second and Rob Green's Sailor was third.

The second event was a most exciting ladies' relay race, in which each rider had two horses and made four mounts. Miss Katie Adams of Layton won the race, with Miss Katie Moss second and Miss Laverne Evans third.

In the three-heat trotting event Joseph H. Grant drove his own mare Daisy and won three straight heats. Time—1:21. 1:22 and 1:23 for half-mile. C. E. France's horse Balley was second, J. H. Grant's Mack third and H. Vanfleet's Flo fourth. A baseball game between a Davis county team and the Dubel Tailors of Salt Lake resulted in a victory for the Davis county nine. There was some excellent trapeze work by La Zeno brothers. An Secondary of the first county fair, and those who went out to the Lagoon, where the exhibition was held, saw displays in every department that were elaborate, highly creditable and the fair.

One of the most striking and effective xhibits at the fair is that of the horticulturists of the county. Their stand oc-cupies the central position in the horti-cultural building, and is a magnificent octagonal affair, laden with the choicest of every kind of fruit. The artistic arches

I.. Sweet Candy company, the banks of Davis courts, the Match Price company of Davis county, the Hatch Brick com-pany, and others.

Hewlett Bros. have a splendid column of their products on the main floor, and the Layton Milling company, in a very neat booth, shows a fine display of its flour. Opposite this is the Kaysville Milling company's display, a unique fea-ture being a series of dishes in which are shown the processes of flour making in every stage, from the whole wheat to the nished product.

In this building can also be seen a display of cheese from the Hooper Dairy company at Hooper, and manufactured salt by Isaac Sears of Salt Lake. Here also the Davis County Argus has a booth from which are distributed copies of a special edition of the paper.

The floral exhibit under the same roof includes a display of flowering plants and shrubs tastefully arranged by Charles Boylin, the Lagoon landscape gardener. A feature of this exhibit is a lemon tree on which is seen ripening fruit, and also an orange tree with its fruit.

Curio Exhibit.

In the women's department, there is a surprisingly large array of fancy work, all of high quality. Near by is a special room fitted up with South Sea Island curios, the property of H. J. Sheffield, jr. This forms an interesting feature of the fair. In an adjoining room is shown many photographs of the recently-erected cottages and business houses of Davis county, arranged by William Allen of Kaysville, the architect who designed the buildings.

The educational department situated in the same building has an expensive display of school work from the public schools of the county. Beside this exhibit is the corner devoted to the manual training department of the University of Utah, and an exhibition is made of wood-work. and an exhibition is made of wood-work-ing as taught at that institution, special machines having been installed for that Livestock and Poultry.

The poultry department is situated on the athletic ground, and this is of itself well worthy of a visit. The principal exhibitors here are Walter W. Stewart, Hyde Bros., George P. Sheffield, George H. Blood and George C. Layton, of Kaysville, and the Bonneville farm of Bountiful

The live stock show is a large one. In the cattle department Ellison Bros. of Layton, Ford Bros. of Centerville, James A. Larkins of Kaysville and others show some prize-taking cattle of thoroughbred stock, the shorthorn and Hereford breeds stock, the shorthful and hereford breeds being in large numbers. In the horse de-partment everything from Percheron and Oldenburg stallions to the smallest of Shetland ponies is to be seen, including racing stock and draft horses, all perfect specimens.

The exhibit of hogs and sheep is especially fine, all the standard breeds of the state being represented.

The petition states that Ella Blake is making an effort to cheat and defraud the plaintiff out of the money without giving him credit for it. He further alleges that the judgment was given in default and that he has a good defence to offer in the action. The judgment, he says, was ordered by Judge Lewis in the district court and that his attorneys neglected the case and allowed it to be entered in default. He asks for another hearing of the case before the district court.
